Extract being tested to combat herpes

NEW YORK (UPI) — A cottonseed oil extract being tested in China as a male contraceptive also has a "killing effect" on genital herpes and gonorrhea, researchers say.

Gossypol has been effective against the sexually transmitted diseases in test tube research in Finland and is being tested on two groups of people by University of Helsinki scientists.

Dr. Sheldon J. Segal, director of population sciences studies at the Rockefeller Foundation, said Wednesday the foundation has "well over a million dollars" invested in gossypol studies.

An estimated 20 million Americans have genital herpes, which still is considered incurable. Gonorrhea, usually symptomless in females, renders tens of thousands of people sterile each year.

The gossypol work of Dr. Tampani Luukkainen and associates in Finland is supported by the Ford Foundation and the U.S. Agency for International Development, said Dr. Linda Atkinson, Ford program officer for population studies.

"There are a lot of kinks to be worked out," Ms. Atkinson said. "However, we're pleased with the progress and the developmental potential looks good."

UAW chief dooms Chrysler pact

DETROIT — The head of the United Auto Workers union says he is losing hope workers will ratify the contract agreement with Chrysler Corp. and industry analysts predict a defeat would shatter the auto-maker's strengthening finances.

Workers were rejecting the proposal 2-to-1. The rejections prompted UAW President Douglas Fraser to tell a Detroit newspaper he was losing hope. Fraser said at first he was "hopeful, now I'm doubtful and tomorrow I'll probably be hopeless."

Lawsuit against wife dismissed

PONTIAC — A suit charging a woman was responsible for her husband's sexual misconduct has been dismissed by Oakland County Circuit Judge Hilda Gage.

A Troy woman said she was raped in a Rochester couple's basement because the wife failed to maintain a safe home. She said after a few drinks, she was chased into the basement, thrown onto a rug and raped by the woman's husband.

The husband faces a separate suit filed by the woman. He already has received a six months work-release program on a plea of guilty to third-degree criminal sexual conduct.

BEIRUT, Lebanon — The Lebanese army discovered an elaborate network of tunnels built by Palestinian guerrillas for shelter from Israeli attack and for hiding huge quantities of military supplies.

Arson fire chases Lathrup workers

by JOHN MICHALAK
Tribune Staff Reporter

Eight persons fled a burning, smoke filled medical office building in Lathrup Village Wednesday night after someone deliberately set a fire in a waiting room that spread rapidly causing $200,000 damage to the structure.

Fire Inspector James W. David of Southfield said investigators found evidence an arsonist used a flammable liquid to start the fire just before 7 p.m. at the Fuller Building, 18181 West Twelve-Mile.

David said the fire forced six unidentified persons to fight off thick, black smoke and "barely escape" the building by a stairway and hallway.

Lt. Andrew Misner of Lathrup said two women, Debra L. Johnson and Terry J. Kemp, jumped eight feet to the ground from a second floor window.

INVESTIGATORS said no one was seriously injured. David said, "This fire could have been death producing. It had all the elements. There was heavy, thick smoke, and the fire was fast. It was through the roof when we got there."

"The people there are very fortunate. There was some quick acting people who got the others out. I intend to find out who they are so we can honor them."

David said a motive hasn't been established for the arson. However, he added, "We don't think it was by a pyromaniac and it wasn't done for kicks." He refused to elaborate.

He said the building is owned by Sheldon Fuller who was unavailable for comment.

MISNER SAID investigators will contact fire marshals from Royal Oak, Hazel Park, Ferndale and Madison Heights to determine if the blaze might be linked to scores of other arsons reported in those cities since the beginning of the year.

David said a $2,000 reward from the Michigan Arson Committee was posted at the Fuller Building for the arrest and conviction of the arsonist.

Patterson buries death penalty petitions

by JOHN A. BASCH
Tribune Staff Reporter

Oakland County Prosecutor L. Brooks Patterson officially threw in the towel Wednesday on his petition drive to bring the death penalty to Michigan.

Patterson said he came within a hairbreadth of putting the question before the voters on the Nov. 2 ballot, but was thwarted by the State Board of Canvassers.

Patterson, the Republican candidate for state attorney general, vowed to try again with another death penalty petition drive if he's elected.

"IT'S EXTREMELY difficult to orchestrate a state-wide petition drive from the county position that I hold," Patterson said.

"I didn't have access to the state-wide media and it's hard to raise the $40,000 or $50,000 minimum needed to print, mail and travel around the state with petitions."

"However, holding a state-wide office, such as attorney general, all of those problems will be solved."

Patterson said he would start his next death penalty campaign, "on the first day I'm sworn in as attorney general."

IT TAKES 286,000 signatures to put the question on the ballot. Patterson and his Citizens for Capital Punishment group, collected 310,000.

However, a random sample of 500 of the signatures was made and 67 were found to be invalid, an indication that the group had not secured enough valid signatures.

Patterson appealed that finding to the State Supreme Court after determining that at least 29 of the "invalid" signatures were from bona fide registered voters who had simply made innocent errors in filling out the petition forms.

"WE CHECKED those so-called 67 erroneous signatures and found people who made innocent mistakes but were still registered voters," he said. "But the State Board of Canvassers, for no really good reason, said it wouldn't look at that evidence."

"I really have some bitterness over their decision," he said. "I went out and did their job for them and they didn't have the courtesy to even look at it."

Patterson said he could appeal the State Supreme Court ruling to the federal court, but won't.

"All we could succeed in doing is reversing the court order and we would still be forced to have a trial. There's no time to do that before the election."

Oakland County Prosecutor L. Brooks Patterson, the Republican candidate for state attorney general said he would start his next death penalty campaign, "on the first day I'm sworn in as attorney general."

Game over!

Video games to stay out at Woods center

by JOHN KELVIN

The game is over — for the time being at least — for two coin-operated video machines at the Huntington Woods Recreation Center.

In response to residents complaints that such games didn't belong at the center, the city commission this week unanimously ordered them removed.

Commissioners two weeks ago reached a similar decision when they voted 3-2 to remove the machines — but then suggested that the games might be back if new rules and regulations were developed by the city's recreation board.

COMMISSIONERS indicated Tuesday night that the issue could ultimately undergo further study. But it doesn't appear that such a study will be immediately forthcoming.

"This video thing has gotten to be too emotional and has lost common sense. I think we need to wait a while to study the matter," said Mayor Ronald F. Gillham.

That emotional outpouring was evident when a Huntington Woods group presented a 400-signature petition at the commission's last meeting and pressured elected officials to remove the machines.

IT WAS THE city's intent, said Gillham, to use the machines to increase traffic into the recreation center. Since last February, the two games have been on several trial runs: first, for one week in February, then two weeks in April and finally on a full time basis since May 16.

Most commissioners seemed to agree though that the issue is not dead and the commission could reverse its decision after studying the effect the games have on the recreation center and the city's residents.

"IF IT IS determined that the recreation center traffic has fallen off, we may consider installing the machines again in a more controlled manner," said Gillham.

He had suggested earlier that cards with parental signatures should be issued authorizing children to play the games. He later conceded "It was an idea whose time has not yet come."

Commissioner Gordon R. Hassig agreed, saying that the commission would have to determine how much opposition there was to the games.

The machines are not without backers however. Some parents turned out Tuesday to voice their support of the games.

And several Huntington Woods children presented their own petition to keep the games.

Cable firm may locate in Royal Oak

by CHERYL BELLER
Tribune Staff Reporter

The general manager of Tribune/United, Southeast Oakland County's cable television company, said the firm may announce plans within a week for purchasing one of three sites in north Royal Oak for its headquarters and $1.5 million master signal processing center.

The firm won final approval for installing a cable system in 11 Southeast Oakland communities Tuesday after voters in three cities approved a 15-year franchise.

MEMBERS OF the cable TV authority at a regular meeting Wednesday celebrated the victories with champagne and cold duck.

General Manager James K. Anderson said the company is considering establishing headquarters at Jefferson Elementary School, Delemere and Nakota, a school closed last year because of declining enrollment. The other two options, he said, are purchasing vacant property near Meijer's Thrifty Acres or at the former site of the Oak Drive-In, near Normandy and Coolidge.

Substations will also be built in Avon Township and Auburn Hills, said Anderson.

THE COMPANY this week is letting a contract for engineering studies of utility poles to determine if adjustments need to be made to string the cable system. Anderson said Tribune/United anticipates paying $1,500 for each mile of the system to Detroit Edison and Michigan Bell for adjusting their lines to accommodate the cables.

"It's expensive and time consuming," said Anderson. "About every 10th pole has to have work done so when the construction crews are out, everything is ready."

The company also plans taking bids next week for electronic supplies, including high-technology amplifiers that will boost signals at pre-determined points where signals may become weak.

THE CABLE SYSTEM will create 125 permanent service jobs and 200 construction jobs, said Anderson. The firm plans spending $650,000 on area job training programs through area institutions.

Anderson added Tribune/United is currently exploring cable franchises in Bloomfield Hills, West Bloomfield, Bloomfield Township, Dearborn Heights, Livonia, and Clarkston.

THE PACT in Southeast Oakland includes the cities of Royal Oak, Berkley, Clawson, Ferndale, Huntington Woods, Pleasant Ridge, Troy, Rochester, and Avon, Pontiac and Oakland townships.

Anderson said Southeast Oakland's cable system will be "unique, a forward looking system. Other communities won't have the same level of service the consortium has."

Hazel Park union head fired?

The president of a union which represents maintenance, custodial, cafeteria and transportation employees of the Hazel Park School District was reportedly fired this morning by a school administrator.

Art Stone, president of Local 271, American Federation of State, County, and Municipal Employees, was reportedly fired by Dallas Sullivan.

Sullivan, Stone, and district administrators were not available for comment.

Under nuclear attack — park entry is free

The Oakland County Parks and Recreation Commission gave the U.S. Army the go-ahead to assemble troops at Groveland Oaks County Park in case of a nuclear attack.

The request to use the 200-acre park in Groveland Township came from Army Major Edward E. Blankenhage of Flint.

Major Blankenhage wants to use the park as an alternate assembly site for his soldiers. The request did not specify the location of the original site.

Commissioners were told the Army doesn't want the park for any trial runs and would only use it during an actual nuclear attack or other major disaster.

In such an event, the Commission will waive the $2.50 park entry fee.

Randy Prince Andy travels with 'blue film star'

Britain's Queen Elizabeth reportedly was raging mad about Prince Andrew's Caribbean vacation on the tiny island of Bequia with a U.S.-born "blue movie star."

The queen's 22-year-old son, dubbed "Randy Andy" because of his eye for women, and actress Koo Stark, 25, left London Tuesday under the pseudonyms of "Mr. and Mrs. Cambridge." London's Daily Express newspaper said Wednesday. BBC-TV's evening newscast showed a clip of Miss Stark's nude scene in the movie "Emily." Andrew, third in line to the British throne, dated Miss Stark on his return from the Falklands war, where he served as a helicopter pilot. The Sun newspaper quoted a royal adviser as saying, "It is one thing for the prince to be seen with a film actress — but quite another to go away on holiday with a blue movie star."

BELUSHI PROBE: A prosecutor says the rock music groupie who "confessed" to National Enquirer interviewers she injected the heroin and cocaine mixture that killed John Belushi may be criminally charged in the comic's death. He also said tape recordings of her interview with the tabloid confirmed the "essential" accuracy of a June article that quoted her as saying she administered the fatal "speedball" mixture that killed Belushi.

SOUR NOTE: In an out-of-court development in the divorce trial of Peter and Roxanne Pulitzer, lawyers for Mrs. Pulitzer, 31, Wednesday filed a $10 million libel suit against the New York Post, charging the tabloid held her up to ridicule with a Sept. 29 front-page headline saying, "Pulitzer Sex Trial Shocker: 1 Slept with a Trumpet." Pulitzer, in a deposition before the court two weeks ago, said Mrs. Pulitzer was often put into trances in her bedroom by Janice "The Psychic" Nelson while a trumpet lay at her feet. The statement said the trumpet was used to hear voices of the dead. Back at the divorce trial, Brian Richards, 29, denied allegations he had sold cocaine to the wife of the publishing heir and had sex with her.

HAIRDO DON'T: Linda Gray's producer on CBS's "Dallas" isn't wild about her new hairdo. Miss Gray, who plays Sue Ellen, had her long locks cut short during the show's summer hiatus. "The last scene of the last episode last year, I was at Cliff Barnes' bedside, because he was in a coma, with a sweater and a pair of pants and long hair," she said, on WCBS-TV, New York's News at Five. "The first show (this year)... I was in the same pair of pants, the same sweater, with a totally new look. So the producer went berserk and said, 'What have you done?' And I said, 'Well, Sue Ellen would probably have had a standing appointment at the hairdresser and if her guy was in a coma, what's she going to do? So, she probably ran up to the hairdresser and did this.'"

Keeping up with Washington . . .

Phone rates could jump 75 percent

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The breakup of the American Telephone & Telegraph Co. and recent Federal Communications Commission actions could cause the cost of basic telephone service to rise more than 75 percent in the next five years, a congressional report says.

The House Government Operations panel estimated costs could be dramatically increased as a result of FCC actions and the divestiture of American Telephone & Telegraph Co. under a consent decree approved in August by a federal judge.

Disabled vets combat parking abuse

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Disabled veterans are declaring war against able-bodied Americans who use special parking spaces reserved for the handicapped.

The group announced plans Wednesday to launch a campaign against parking space abusers, using the slogan: "Don't put yourself in their place."

Tom Keller, DAV assistant national director of communications, said the campaign is a response to the increasing, angry complaints made by DAV members.

Medicare to reward thrift

WASHINGTON (UPI) — With Medicare's hospital costs expected to soar 32 percent in the next two years, the Reagan administration says it wants to encourage states to put on the brakes with a new payment system that rewards thriftiness.

Medicare now reimburses hospitals under a "cost-plus" system that pays them for each service they render, such as X-rays, operations and tests. Critics say the current system encourages hospitals to order needless treatment.

Under the government's "prospective payment" system, hospitals would be paid a fixed fee based on a patient's diagnosis, and get to keep whatever money they do not spend.

Agreement may prevent Hollywood strike

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — A tentative agreement between producers and entertainment industry workers calls for a 26.2 percent pay hike and could avert a threatened strike against the television and film industry.

Actors struck the industry in 1980 and the Writers Guild walked out last year, but the agreement, reached late Wednesday, appeared to clear the way for a strike-free season this year.

The new pact will be voted on by IATSE members through the mail within 10 days. Before talks began the producers were offering 19 percent and the union wanted 34 percent.

Store chain won't remove starch blockers

CHICAGO (UPI) — General Nutrition Centers, a nationwide chain of health food stores, has refused to remove starch blocker diet aids from their shelves despite a federal judge's order that all manufacture and sale of the products be halted until they can be tested for safety.

GNC officials in Pittsburgh said Wednesday the company will continue to sell starch blockers because they are not bound by U.S. District Judge Nicholas Bua's decision.

Russians, Chinese open border talks

PEKING (UPI) — Soviet and Chinese officials opened their first talks in three years today on their bitter border dispute involving nearly 2 million troops along a 4,500-mile Asian frontier, Peking sources said.

The sources said the two communist giants agreed Wednesday before the talks to skirt sensitive side issues including the Soviet occupation of Afghanistan and Moscow's support for China's bitter rival to the south, Vietnam.

Midget sub hunts for intruder

MUSKO, Sweden (UPI) — The Swedish navy moved in fresh commandos and a special midget sub to aid in the hunt for a suspected Soviet submarine trapped today for the seventh day near the top-secret Musko naval base.

The sub had been expected to surface Wednesday to replenish its air supply after five days under the surface. Officials said it could have received fresh air through a snorkel but said that was unlikely.

Since the craft failed to surface voluntarily, more depth charges were detonated. Dead fish surfaced, but no sub.

Royal Oak fills 3 driver positions, hears optimism about spending

by CHERYL BELLER
Tribune Staff Reporter

A discussion about filling three vacant truck driver positions to assist in Royal Oak's fall leaf collection program led to discussion about the city's 1982-1983 budget by the City Commission.

"It appears we'll be able to make it through this year in the black," said City Manager William Baldridge who recommended the three positions be filled.

BALDRIDGE noted a shortfall in state-shared revenues will create a $292,000 deficit in this year's budget, but said the shortfall can be eliminated by using additional revenue sources. He said the city's fund balance is estimated to be $65,000 more than anticipated, and a franchise fee payment from Tribune/United cable television company will be about $277,000. The city had budgeted $50,000.

He said an additional $105,000 is available in the city's contingency fund to balance the budget if necessary.

COMMISSIONERS in a 6-1 vote approved filling the truck driver positions, but on a temporary basis, with a review of the positions slated for March.

Commissioner Robert Stocker suggested the positions be filled from Oct. 15 to March 31, during the period of leaf collection and snow removal.

Commissioner Alice Schoenholtz voted against the resolution, saying it may cost the city more in the long run to hire employees temporarily, lay them off, and incur unemployment compensation costs.

"You may be penny-wise and pound-foolish," she said.

STOCKER SAID he preferred hiring the employees on a temporary basis so the employees will not be misled about potential layoffs in March.

"There is the situation in the future where we may need to look at further cutbacks," echoed Commissioner Gerard Boylan.

Troy board remains mum on negotiations

In spite of a news blackout about fifty residents gathered at the Troy School Board administration offices Tuesday evening in hopes of gleaning a word or two about the contract negotiations between Troy Schools and the Troy Education Association.

Citing an Oakland County Circuit Court order, board president Donald McGinnis said the board was "not at liberty to discuss" contract negotiations.

"The only thing we can say is that negotiations are on going and we have complied with the court order to negotiate a minimum of three days a week, 6-8 hours per day," he said.

Judge Francis X. O'Brien issued the consent agreement Sept. 17, thus sidestepping the district's request that the striking teachers be ordered back to work by the court. School resumed Sept. 21, after a nine-day strike.

Since that time, many teachers have been wearing buttons with descending numbers indicating the number of days left under the terms of the court order.

"While we have encouraged teachers not to wear them (the buttons), we are unable to order them off," said McGinnis. "They have a right to wear the tags as they wish."

The four week consent order runs another week and a half, then operates on a day-to-day basis and can be terminated only by written, four-day notice by either side.

"We are hopeful that, with continued negotiations, we may be able to dissolve this situation," said McGinnis.

Board members voted the district into a pilot food commodity program which will provide government cash instead of food for Troy's lunch program. Troy will be one of two Michigan school districts purchasing food and staples under the new two-year trial program. Board Trustee John Clark remarked "this program will cut down on waste."

The 34th annual fall convention of the Michigan Association of School Boards is scheduled Nov. 2-4 in Lansing. Named as voting delegates for the convention were Troy board members Carl Cohen, William Michaels, Edith Gonzales and Mary Ann Kreinbring.

Tylenol death probed, packages studied

From UPI reports

While Philadelphia police investigate a cyanide-laced Tylenol death that occurred six months ago, federal officials said it will take at least several months for new drug packaging laws preventing tampering to take effect.

Health and Human Services Secretary Richard Schweiker told reporters the FDA is drafting an "emergency packaging regulation," but said, "Nobody's talking sooner than three to four months" before changes are made, because it will take the over-the-counter drug industry that long "to get all new equipment, all new machinery."

Schweiker said there are three basic ways to make drug packages less susceptible to tampering: "blister" pack — pills enclosed in plastic with a cardboard backing; a seal on the bottle, or some kind of a package seal.

The head of the 130-person force investigating cyanide-laced Extra-Strength Tylenol capsules says it is too early to link the cyanide death in Philadelphia with the fatal poisonings of seven Chicago area residents.

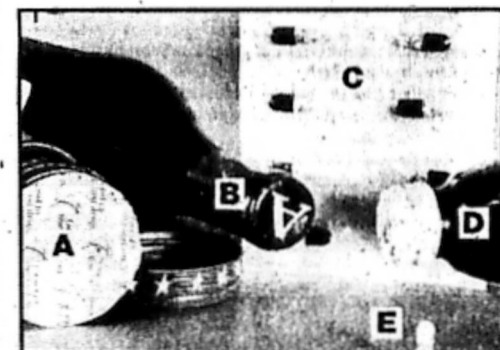

THE POISONINGS case took a mysterious twist when Philadelphia police said the death of William Pascual, 26, a graduate student at the University of Pennsylvania, was originally ruled a suicide but now was considered "Tylenol-cyanide-related." Pascual's case was re-opened when cyanide was discovered in an Extra-Strength Tylenol bottle found in his home.

Frank Scaffidi, chief of detectives in the Philadelphia Police Department, said Pascual's April 3 death "links Tylenol and cyanide" and raises "more unanswered questions than answers."

At least four multi-million dollar lawsuits have been filed because of the deaths.

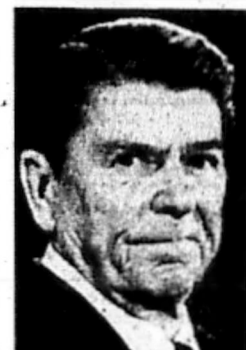

ONE OF THE LAWSUITS accuses Johnson & Johnson of inadequately supervising the use of cyanide in its factories. The chemical is used to test the purity of material used to manufacture Tylenol.

Fahner and California authorities discounted the idea of a "copy cat" killer behind the strychnine poisoning of a Oroville, Calif., butcher last Thursday. Greg Blagg, 27, has recovered.

Here are the five main packaging techniques which are nearly tamper proof. They are: A, sealed bottles with an inner membrane; B, secondary seals, shrink bands that go over the closure and shrink around it; C, unit dose packing with each tablet or capsules individually sealed; D, closure with tamper proof bands; E, capsules which lock.

PRESIDENT REAGAN

'Shut up!' Reagan tells GOP hopeful

WASHINGTON (UPI) — "Shut up," President Reagan snapped at a renegade Republican congressional candidate who loudly accused him of "Tylenol taxation" and foreign policies that favored the Soviets.

"You haven't said a word that's true yet," Reagan, flushed with anger, told Gary Arnold of Santa Cruz, Calif., in a sharp exchange at the White House Wednesday.

Reagan, speaking to 65 GOP candidates, was midway through attacking the Democrats for being out of touch when Arnold loudly interrupted and verbally assaulted him.

HE ACCUSED Reagan of abandoning Taiwan, being too soft on the Soviets and turning his back on conservatives by supporting the $98.3 billion tax boost — complaints frequently made by extreme right-wing politicians.

"While the Soviets get the wheat, Americans get the shaft," said Arnold. "We're facing a Tylenol taxation situation here."

The applause of one unidentified candidate echoed loudly in the room as the other candidates mumbled about the intrusion.

REAGAN tried to defend the recent tax increases but Arnold constantly interrupted.

The president then halted his explanation, snapped "shut up," and quickly finished making his point. Arnold was cutoff as the room burst into applause in support of the president.

Jobless rate becomes major campaign issue

From UPI reports

WASHINGTON — Industry and labor economists expect the nation's jobless rate to break the 10 percent level Friday, placing even greater focus on unemployment in the November congressional elections.

Although President Reagan acknowledges the rate may climb into double figures for the first time since the Great Depression, he says that — at most — he should have to shoulder only part of the responsibility.

IN TALKING with GOP candidates at the White House Wednesday, the president pinned the bulk of the blame on policies of past Democratic administrations.

"I know that lately there's been a nice game of saying 'well, the tack today is to blame those over the last 20 years that caused these things and we don't take the blame for anything,'" he said.

"No, I want to be fair. Unemployment is 9.8 percent. When we took office it was 7.4 percent. Okay, I'll take blame for 2.4 percent of the unemployment."

Throughout the industrial Midwest, unemployment is the main issue in the congressional elections, and a major concern in races in other areas of the nation.

ALTHOUGH the nation's unemployment rate is expected to reach a post-Depression record, the actual number of people out of work will be much higher.

While the September figures will show all those in the civilian work force actively looking for work, it does not consider those so-called "discouraged workers" who have given up seeking a job.

Ferndale OKs generator buy

by John Dyke

The lowest of three bidders, Michigan Generator Service, Detroit, will supply the Ferndale Fire Department with a portable gasoline generator.

City Council approved the $1,089 purchase.

Chief William McMurray said a portable generator is often used by firefighters arriving on the scene of a fire, where electric power has been lost and the firemen need to hookup flood lights or a cutting saw to battle the blaze.

Funds for the spending were approved in the city's 1981-82 fire department budget, account number 101-337-977.

Council approved reappropriating the funds from fiscal 1981-82 for the purchase.

Shotgun toting bandits strike two pizzerias

Shotgun toting bandits continue to terrorize and rob South Oakland businesses.

The latest were in Troy and Southfield where persons with sawed off shotguns took an undetermined amount of cash from employees at pizzerias.

In Troy, employees at Little Caesar's, 1717 Crooks, allowed a man inside after closing late Sunday when he knocked on the door and said he wanted to place an order. The man brandished the shotgun and took money from the cash register.

He was described as black, about 5 feet 9 and 175 pounds. Workers at Dino's Pizzeria, 15533 West Twelve-Mile, Southfield, said a man pulled a shotgun from his waistband over the weekend and took cash.

TWO EMPLOYEES and two customers were ordered on the floor while the gunman escaped.

They said the man was white, about 35, 5 feet 10, 165 pounds with light brown wavy hair, wearing a blue-green flannel jacket and jeans.

Gunmen armed with shotguns have robbed fast food restaurants, pizzerias and party stores in virtually every South Oakland city during the past two months.

Troy and Sterling Heights police arrested a Warren man last week who is wanted in connection with a shotgun robbery earlier this year.

BURGLARS SLEDGEHAMMERED their way into offices at Northland Chrysler, 14100 West Eight-Mile, Oak Park, and took an undetermined amount of money from two safes, vending machines and offices.

The break-in was discovered early Monday. Investigators believe the burglars stayed inside the car dealership for at least two hours.

Police said the burglars used sledgehammers to break through two office doors and ransacked offices.

The burglars pried open the safes and vending machines and took an undetermined amount of cash.

Police said they also took two television sets, a calculator and many other items.

Police said Northland Chrysler officials continued an inventory to determine what's missing.

TWO YOUTHS took a Detroit woman's purse while she waited inside a bus shelter on Greenfield in Oak Park Monday night.

Shelia Scruggs, 28, said the youths were about 16.

OAK PARK POLICE impounded a 1979 Cadillac stolen in Detroit last March after spotting the car at the local motel early Sunday.

Police released a man and a woman driving the car pending further investigation.

Police said the car had license plates registered to a 1971 Ford and an altered vehicle identification number.

Officers saw the man and woman enter the car and drive into Detroit where the vehicle was stopped.

The couple was taken into custody for a short time and questioned.

Same time next year?

Penny Suszko of Ferndale and Kathleen Hakala of Royal Oak have a lot more in common than they thought when they were roommates last year in the maternity ward at Royal Oak's William Beaumont Hospital.

On Jan. 20, 1981, both women delivered baby girls. Mrs. Suszko named hers Andrea and Mrs. Hakala's girl was named Karolyn.

Last month, the women discovered they were both at Beaumont again — for the same reason.

On Sept. 23, Mrs. Suszko delivered a baby boy, Daniel, and Mrs. Hakala delivered her son, Eric.

"It's too coincidental," said Mrs. Suszko. "We both delivered early and ended up there at the same time. We've been communicating through birthday and Christmas cards but we'll definitely have to get together with our children after this."

How to find out what blacks want

By WALTER E. WILLIAMS

Economist and Syndicated Columnist

In the recent District of Columbia voter referendum, Proposition 9, calling for mandatory sentences for crimes of violence, passed overwhelmingly. Seventy-three percent of the voters gave it a thumbs-up. People are getting tired of a revolving-door justice system whereby if the cops catch criminals, the courts and parole boards have them back on the streets in no time to prey again on honest citizens.

The referendum in the Nation's Capital points out just how fed up with crime black people are. This, of course, stands to reason. Black people are the major victims of crime. Whether it's rape, murder, burglary, assault, or robbery, black people are most vulnerable. Do you know that, in absolute numbers, more black people are murdered each year than whites? Furthermore, most are murdered by other blacks.

Anyway, you'd suspect that black people would want strong law enforcement. That's if you're a reasonable person. But you wouldn't arrive at the same conclusion if you turned on the six o'clock news and listened to one of the black "leaders" or some other expert on black needs and wants.

Did Proposition 9 have the support of black civil rights groups and black politicians? No! The National Association for the Advancement of Colored People (NAACP) was against it. The Urban League, Vernon Jordan's old organization, was against it. Most of the District's black councilmen were against it. The American Civil Liberties Union (ACLU) was against it. All these organizations, who say they care for, and represent, black people, came out against Proposition 9; but the voters of Washington, a city with a black population of 75 percent, passed it with 73 percent of the vote.

WHAT DOES that tell you? It tells me that in many instances so-called black leaders are out of step with black people. Instead they represent their sources of money which is often white liberal organizations such as the Ford and Rockefeller Foundations. Often, by virtue of their own wealth, these black leaders are immune from the day-to-day terror that poor blacks must face, and, therefore, can afford to be more philosophical about crime.

But crime isn't the only example of how black leaders are out of touch with black people. At least, according to the Gallup Polls, 75 percent of black people are against busing. Yet black leaders are for busing. Sixty-four percent of black people are against racial quotas in jobs and college admissions. Black leaders are for racial quotas. A majority of black people are for the death penalty. Black leaders are against the death penalty.

SO WHAT'S to be made of all this? Clearly, no one, two, or more organizations or people, can say what black people want. Such a finding should not strike you as strange because no one or two people or organizations represent the wants of white people.

The fact, however, that neither the NAACP nor the Urban League represents black people now, does not mean that either never did. When blacks were denied basic constitutional rights and when blacks were lynched on a routine basis, civil rights organizations did reflect the wishes of blacks to stop these injustices. But today there is no such significant community of interests distinguishing blacks from whites.

To put it briefly, when you want to know what black people want, merely ask yourself what do white people want?

Rep. Johnson urges citizens to oppose pay hikes for state public servants until Michigan returns to 'its economic feet'

I am writing to call attention to the fact that the State Officer's Compensation Commission is reconvening. This is important because that Commission sets salary levels and amounts of expense accounts for the Governor, Lt. Governor, Supreme Court and Legislature. They will be meeting now through December to decide on raises for 1983.

The last time the Commission met, it set increases in salary and expense money for calendar year 1982 that totaled $831,000. Those pay raises came at a time when great numbers of people in Michigan were losing jobs or taking pay cuts. On Nov. 5, 1981, I and a few of my colleagues tried to block those raises by co-sponsoring legislation (House Bill 5227) that would have forced the Legislature to take up the question of vetoing the pay raises. Unfortunately, that bill was bottled up.

While the amount of money involved would not itself solve Michigan's budget crisis, every dollar does count. And, just as important, public morale should not be further depressed by the spectacle of public servants getting fat while those they serve have to keep tightening their belts.

When Michigan gets back on its economic feet, there will be time enough to consider pay raises for public servants.

Therefore, I urge all concerned citizens to write to the Commission and demand that they not set any raises for next year. Letters can be addressed to: State Officer's Compensation Commission, Department of Civil Service, Third Floor, Lewis Cass Building, Lansing, MI, 48909.

Speaks of 'ex-wives that are victims of financial devastation'

I am writing of the judicial injustice perpetrated on the children and wives, divorced by men making $25,000 or more a year.

The judges and the women's lawyers who agree on $360 to $400 a month, $4,300 to $4,800 a year with 2 children. Then welfare kicks in another $50 to $100 a month.

I'm speaking of policemen's ex-wives that are victims of financial devastation. Maybe one losing a home soon.

Then they, the men, on their tax forms, state and federal in some cases, claim deductions as well as taxes and interest on the mortgages. Great.

These are the macho types. After all they carry guns.

The wives I know are all wonderful women. I hope the police association can find a way to help them.

Feel fired Royal Oak police should be punished in line with the suspension without pay recommended for judge

EDITOR'S NOTE: This letter ran previously, Sept. 30, but a phrase was omitted which changed the sense. This is the corrected version.

The lead article in the Daily Tribune Thursday, Sept. 16, 82, related that after a seven-month investigation it was determined that an elected local judge deliberately and intentionally violated laws and judicial ethics while in office. It states further that the judge's persistent disregard for the spirit and letter of the judicial code amounts to a blatant betrayal of the public trust.

For all of these deliberate and continuing offenses, the recommended disciplinary action is a mere nine-month suspension without pay.

In the same newspaper there also appeared a letter to the editor in which a Birmingham attorney discusses the recent firing of the Royal Oak policemen, pointing out that the firing hurts not only the employee but also the employers (Royal Oak taxpayers).

We believe that the Royal Oak City Commissioners (representing us — the taxpayers) should step up to their responsibility and reduce the disciplinary action taken, restoring the discharged and suspended police officers to their previous positions.

Today is not too soon for these men and their families.

Thinks defense contract should go to Warren firm, rather than to Canada

With our economy and job market in the shape it is, how can the U.S. justify awarding a military contract to Canada?

The contract is for armored cars and it just so happens that Cadillac Gage of Warren, Mich. makes armored cars which I am sure are superior to the Canadians.

Our accounting office in Washington has been swayed by the "Buy Canadian" commercials or "is this a sweetheart deal?"

Urges 'everyone interested in lower utility bills to back Proposal D'

It does seem very unfair that the three largest utilities can spend more than $1 million dollars on utility related ballot issues designed to protect their profits. Obviously the money originally comes from our pocket, and would be used for higher prices. If these utilities were required to have more accountability, they wouldn't be passing along to us the results of poor decision making like (Algerian natural gas at $8 Mcf (thousand cubic feet) rather than domestic sources selling for $3 Mcf.

I would like to encourage everyone interested in lower utility bills to vote for Proposal "D" on the November ballot and not some other watered down version sponsored by the very utilities we hope to restrain.

Reagan versus... sex discrimination

by HELEN THOMAS

UPI White House Reporter

WASHINGTON (UPI) — With the demise of the Equal Rights Amendment that he opposed, President Reagan is now making a major effort to wipe out some of the more blatant vestiges of sex discrimination on the government books.

The president has given Elizabeth Dole, his dynamic assistant for Public Liaison, the green light to organize a broad attack on sex bias and legal inquiry.

Mrs. Dole, who was an ERA supporter, is enthusiastic about the new battle plan and believes that she will have the support of the activist women's libbers in ridding government regulations of obvious discriminatory terminology.

She feels she has a mandate to move ahead and says there is a "quiet revolution" taking place with a "tidal wave of women coming into the work force."

"We have to sort out the problems and what needs to be addressed," she said in an interview. Furthermore, she said polls show women have "less faith... less of a certainty about our institutions... a lack of confidence about the future as they have come into the work force."

MRS. DOLE has her work cut out for her in pursuing Reagan's pledge to work with the governors of the 50 states to root out discrimination against women in their statutes.

"We have to move them to corrective legislation," she said.

Mrs. Dole said that she has met with "many women's groups who say we'll work with you."

She acknowledged giving her husband, Sen. Robert Dole, R-Kan., a nudge when he introduced a bill before congressional adjournment at the president's behest to sanitize 100 laws from sex bias language.

In addition, she said that the Justice Department has organized a team of 15 to 20 men and women lawyers to look into discrimination in each government agency and department.

In a letter to Senator Dole on Sept. 27, Reagan noted that last year he had issued an executive order directing the attorney general to complete review of federal laws and regulations containing language "that unjustifiably differentiates or discriminates on the basis of sex."

"I am happy to report that the first stage of that process is under way, and I fully expect that when we are finished a significant contribution will have been made toward the achievement of full equality for women before the law," Reagan said.

HE SAID the bill Dole introduced would revise a number of statutes identified as "sex biased" in a Justice Department report last June.

"As important as this is, all of us realize that it is only one step that must be followed by many others," he said. "But in the end, I hope we will be able to say that full equality before the law is not just an ideal but a practical reality."

Mrs. Dole, who holds a Harvard law degree and a Phi Beta Kappa key, said she has had two meetings with the President to discuss plans which she is certain will show "some significant movement" in the drive for female equality in the workplace.

At a news conference last July 28, White House reporter Sarah McClendon, a long and active member of the National Woman's Party, challenged Reagan to make public the Justice Department interim report on the discriminatory regulations it had turned up government-wide.

HER QUESTIONING of the president spotlighted the issue and is credited with forcing the slow moving White House to accelerate the pace of eliminating the age old inequities, many of them economic.

Meadow Brook brews up 'Macbeth' for opener

by RAYMOND J. SERAFIN
Tribune Staff Reporter

Meadow Brook Theatre will rely on a little witchcraft and treachery to night to get its 17th season off to a bubbling start.

Those aren't marketing techniques — they're just key elements in this year's opening play, William Shakespeare's "Macbeth."

Despite difficult economic times, the non-profit theater group at Oakland University in Avon Township isn't putting all of its stock in magical incantations. It's relying instead this season on a proven formula of offering a wide variety of widely-known theater, eight plays ranging from classics to contemporary comedies, from musicals to whodunits.

MEADOW BROOK depends heavily on season subscribers — expected to top 13,000 this year — according to Frank Bolinger, assistant to General Director Terence Kilburn. The professional theater (it uses Actors Equity Association members) gets no direct subsidy from Meadow Brook, relying on ticket sales, donations and grants to meet its budget.

"Macbeth" is being directed by Arif Hasnain, who directed "Othello" last year for Meadow Brook. Hasnain, of Toronto, is an experienced Shakespearean director, having formerly been assistant director of the Stratford Shakespeare Festival and having staged several Shakespeare plays as artistic director of the Manitoba Theatre Center.

MORE THAN 30 ACTORS, possibly the most ever for a Meadow Brook production, will be involved in "Macbeth," with David Regal portraying the title role and Lisa McMillan playing Lady Macbeth.

Each Meadow Brook production is scheduled for 29 performances, opening on a Thursday of the first week and closing on a Sunday the end of the fourth week. Performances are every evening Tuesday through Sunday (two on Saturday), with a matinee on Wednesday.

Other plays scheduled for this season are "The Royal Family," beginning Nov. 4; "A Christmas Carol," Dec. 2; "Talley's Folly," Dec. 30; "The Children's Hour," Jan. 27; "Mornings at Seven," Feb. 24; "The Unexpected Guest," March 24, and "The Fantasticks," April 21. Ticket information is available by calling the box office at 377-3300.

David Regal in the title role and Lisa McMillan as Lady Macbeth star in Meadow Brook Theatre's production of Shakespeare's "Macbeth."

If asked to name three popular composers, I might be tempted to answer, "Duke Ellington, Chuck Berry and Hank Williams Sr.," but what I'd probably say is, "George Gershwin, Aaron Copland, and Leonard Bernstein."

To some extent, each of those last three gentlemen have managed to combine popular culture with a classical structure. There's Gershwin's "Rhapsody in Blue," the ballet, "Appalachian Spring" by Copland, and a mainstay in the collection of any soundtrack fan, Bernstein's score for "West Side Story." Those composers have also written much in the way of "serious music" with both Copland and Bernstein leading orchestras in performance of their own works and committing those performances to vinyl.

BERNSTEIN, OF LATE, is seemingly intent on recording all of his compositions — and as a world class conductor/composer, who is better suited than he to interpret his music? There've been new recordings of his three symphonies, a "Dybbuk" ballet, and a song cycle for six singers, "Songfest."

On this new record there's music from three different decades, showing the differences that came over his music through the years. "On the Waterfront" was a film by Elia Kazan for which Bernstein wrote the score in 1954. Rather than give the music life only in the context of the film, Bernstein made a suite of some of the themes for concert performance.

Within three years' time he was to write the music for "West Side Story," and the suite from "On the Waterfront" serves as a good indicator of the popular melodies to follow.

THE THREE "Meditations" are basically themes from the "Mass" of 1971, arranged for cello and orchestra, while "Hali" is a 1981 piece for flute, string orchestra, and percussion containing some dissonance. The soloists are Rostropovich (cello) and Rampal (flute).

Altogether authoritative performances of good music by a fine American composer.

Gems and minerals: brilliant show

The most brilliant show going on this weekend will certainly be at the Detroit Light Guard Armory, where the Michigan Mineralogical Society will put on its 21st annual Greater Detroit Gem and Mineral Show.

Billed as the second largest show in the world, it will bring together exhibits by 19 national and international museums, and various demonstrations, displays, dealers and lecturers.

FEATURED will be a special exhibit from the St. Louis Museum of Science and Natural History, a two-ton cast of the skull of Tyrannosaurus Rex, largest of the meat-eating dinosaurs which became extinct about 65 million years ago.

Also notable are an exhibit of gems and ivory artifacts by Sidney Krandler and Sons, a Detroit-area jeweler, and a gemstone mosaic display by John McMartin of Milford. McMartin discovered the Florentine mosaic tables and wall hangings on a trip to Brazil.

Among others providing special exhibits are the Royal Ontario Museum, Cranbrook Institute of Sci-

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): You could be "deluged" with requests from those who travel, write and who are just plain curious. Strive for balance, protect your own interests. Short trip may be necessary, could involve Scorpio or another Taurus.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Puzzle pieces fall into place; you'll know what should be done, when to do it and will gain specific information regarding payments, credits, costs. You'll locate needed material and increase income potential.

Opening lead — six of hearts.

When declarer takes a finesse he usually hopes it will win, but there are occasions when he earnestly hopes it will lose. Here is an example of such a situation. Declarer wins West's queen of hearts with the ace and decides that the best way of playing the hand is to lead a low diamond and finesse the jack.

If East has the queen and takes it, South has ten cast-iron tricks. He later overtakes the king of diamonds with the ace and runs dummy's star-spangled suit. That is why South hopes the finesse will lose.

This method of play — taking a first-round finesse — has another advantage; declarer may still win six diamond tricks if West was dealt Q-x. In that case, when South later plays the king and West's queen appears, he can afford to overtake the king with the ace.

But let's assume that in the present case East is shrewd enough to refuse to win the jack of diamonds at trick two. In that case, declarer leads a club from dummy and finesesses the queen. (This time South hopes the finesse will win.)

When it does, declarer leads the king of diamonds and overtakes it with the ace. He then finesesses the jack of clubs, cashes the ace, and continues with a club. East takes the king and cashes the queen of diamonds, but South comes home with ten tricks consisting of two spades, two hearts, two diamonds and four clubs.

Note that if declarer starts

Heloise HOUSEHOLD HELP

DEAR FRIENDS:
Recently, I was on the Larry King radio show. Many of you have written me saying you had heard it but that you missed some of the hints.

Many of the great hints that people shared with me are oldies but goodies. They're well worth repeating because there are always people who never heard them before. So, here goes:

Alan called in to say that when it is hot, to keep from burning the little one's legs, cover the car seat with a crib sheet. This works well in winter, too, when that plastic can be mighty cold.

Another good hint: If you have a problem with the holes in your plastic shower curtain ripping, you can prevent it by placing washers over the hooks on the inside of the curtain. The washers will take most of the stress and the holes won't tear. (ABBIE—I'M GOING TO

CALL ON THIS

I learned something, too. Some manufacturers of quick-drying glue do have a solvent you can use to remove the glue if it falls someplace it isn't supposed to, like on your fingers! But, please, be careful and read directions so you won't damage a table or a garment, etc.

I really enjoyed being on Larry's radio show and all of you who called in with nice comments made it worthwhile to be up from 12 midnight to 3 a.m.

Remember, I am here to help if I can, and if I don't know the answer, I will do my best to get it for you. Love to you all. — Heloise

HINTS FROM HIM
Dear Heloise: Putting soap on the threads of a screw for ease in screwing it into the wood is great, but not where moisture is present. Corrosion may result.

Instead, use a small bar of beeswax, available at hardware stores, notions counters, etc. It's better and lasts a long time.

It's also good for lubricating wooden drawers in chests, cabinets, etc. — C.F. Kruszyna

No crusty reception for Wings' Mr. Pizza Pizza

What's happened to the Detroit Red Wings fans of old? Have they all turned into wimps or something? What I saw at Wednesday night's opener against the St. Louis Blues was enough to make Super Fan's helmet twirl. It was all peace, love and understanding at Joe Louis Arena. Nary a Detroit-directed boo was heard.

INSTEAD, there were more smiles to be seen than on a Donny and Marie television special. People were glowing with an eerie Pat Boone-like wholesomeness. Soda was outselling suds 3-1. Optimism abounded. Everyone seemed genuinely excited about the hockey club.

IT WAS OCT. 6, 1982 A.N. (After Norris). The Mike Ilitch era had begun.

Strobe light bathed the darkened arena during pre-game festivities. The atmosphere was definitely rock concert on ice.

Celebrities like Lions' quarterback Eric Hipple and Tigers' rookie centerfielder Glenn Wilson were in attendance.

So was Red Winger, the team's new mascot and a fowl ball that looks like a cardinal with a pituitary problem.

Unlike his fine-feathered friend, Ilitch definitely appeared on top of his game. And the crowd roared its appreciation for the efforts of Mr. Pizza Pizza, who has spent all of that dough dough on the Wings.

He and his wife, Marian, were embraced by the crowd of 17,000 plus more warmly than an extra large with pepperonis and mushrooms by a sinful dieter.

The fans treated the Ilitches to a lengthy standing ovation. "That was great," enthused Ilitch about the crowd's reception. "Marian just cried."

Those were tears of joy. Not many have flowed for Detroit hockey in a long time.

ILITCH KNOWS that Wednesday night, it was the icing that drew the people in. In the long run, though, it'll be the cake that counts.

That piece of pastry could, as both GM Jimmy Devellano and coach Nick Polano know, be a long time in baking.

Still, the good news is that Detroit, long the pineapple upside down cake of NHL franchises, finally seems to have righted itself.

The players worked hard throughout, checking closer than the border patrol and skating right up until the Zamboni came to clear the ice after the final period.

The bad news is that the outcome was the same as in years past. The Wings lost, 2-1.

STILL, despite the loss, the Wings are on the road back. You gotta believe, say the players.

When the club changed hands and Ilitch's fresh management air blew in, some of that breeze filtered down to the clubhouse.

Players talk confidently, not confidentially, about the Wings' new season. They speak in future rather than only past and present tenses. They too have been imbued by the infectious optimism of their new owner.

"I'm sorry that we lost, but I still feel really good about this season," said defenseman Reed Larson.

"We're going to get better all of the time."

"That's the first time I've ever seen an owner get a standing ovation. He appears to be a well-liked man." — Detroit Red Wings coach Nick Polano, after hearing the reception that Wings fans gave Mike Ilitch at the opener Wednesday.

It was 'fun night' despite loss

DETROIT (UPI) — The Detroit Red Wings will need some time to catch up to their new owner.

Detroit played its first game for its new boss, Mike Ilitch, and the result Wednesday night was familiar — a 2-1 loss to the visiting St. Louis Blues.

But the glitter and gloss far outweighed the barren result and there was one unfamiliar sight — the Red Wings were skating their socks off after the Blues' Wayne Babych put in his own rebound from short range to break a 1-1 tie 5:43 into the final period.

"IT WAS A fun night," said Detroit defenseman Reed Larson, an Ilitch booster who has seen five of his six seasons with the Red Wings turn sour.

"They really did it up first class," Larson said. "We don't deserve it yet — but some day we will."

Ilitch, who ended 50 years of Norris family ownership when he bought the club from Bruce A. Norris last spring, spent somewhere between $250,000 and $450,000 to jazz up Joe Louis Arena.

The Red Wings' dressing room was remodeled. A muraled brick wall now separates the players from Coach Nick Polano's office and a fully equipped weight room has been set up.

TAPESTRIES adorn both concourses, seats and aisles have better identification numbers, the drab gray of the building has been brightened with different paint and a new press lounge featuring Ilitch's pizza has been added. There's even a tacky bird-like "Red Winger" mascot who skates between periods.

"That's the first time I've seen an owner get a standing ovation," Polano marveled. "He appears to be a well-liked man."

Ilitch got a 30-second standing ovation in pre-game ceremonies from a record opening night crowd of 17,343 and Larson presented the new owner's wife, Marian, with a spray of flowers from the team.

THE NEW OWNER gave away two new automobiles — and will give one away during each of the team's next 39 home games.

Tom Rowe scored for Detroit 46 seconds into the second period, clicking from about 45 feet with a forehead, but goalie Mike Liut turned back every other Red Wings shot.

Larry Patey tied it up for St. Louis at the 16:26 mark of the second period when goalie Gilles Gilbert of Detroit tripped trying to smother a slow-moving puck in front of his own net.

PATEY tripped trying to jump over Gilbert, but landed with his stick out in front of his body and managed to slide the puck into the unprotected net.

Babych popped in his own short rebound in the final period, 1:29 after Gilbert was penalized for crosschecking in front of his own net.

"It was old-time hockey," Larson said. "There was good goal tending and a lot of bodies taken out (of the action)."

"We seemed to be very tight in the early part of the game," Polano said. "There was a lot of anxiety because of the way the press built up the game and the crowd."

It's four against one as John Ogradnick tries to center the puck while being hounded by Larry Patey (6), Rob Ramage (5), goalie Mike Liut and Ed Kea.

Rainout frustrates the Braves

ST. LOUIS (UPI) — Fate has decreed that nothing shall come easy for the Atlanta Braves in 1982 — and that includes an opening game victory in the National League championship series.

The Braves held a 1-0 lead over the St. Louis Cardinals and Phil Niekro was beginning to feel comfortable with his knuckleball in the fifth inning Wednesday when rain turned Busch Stadium into a giant fish bowl.

THE TARPULIN was ordered onto the field by home plate umpire Billy Williams with one out in the bottom of the fifth — only two outs away from being an official game — and it remained there for almost 2½ hours before the game was postponed.

"If this had been a regular season game, we'd have continued," said Atlanta first baseman Chris Chambliss. "We had time to get two quick outs. But then it would have been only a five-inning game and no one was looking for a five-inning game. We weren't looking for a cheap win. We've played all season to get where we are (playoffs) and we don't need any kind of luck or any kind of short game now. We feel we can play a whole game with them."

THE TWO TEAMS will try to play Game 1 again tonight and the rest of the playoff schedule will be pushed back a day. Pascual Perez will replace Niekro as Atlanta's starting pitcher in the second opener and Bob Forsch will replace Joaquin Andujar for St. Louis.

Game 2 will be played in St. Louis Friday night and Game 3 in Atlanta Saturday night. If necessary, Game 4 will be played Sunday night and Game 5 Monday afternoon in Atlanta.

Niekro worked out of a bases-loaded jam in the first inning and survived four St. Louis hits in the first three innings.

Brewers' bats silenced again

ANAHEIM, Calif. (UPI) — The California Angels' pitching staff has been overlooked this season more than Dolly Parton's legs.

People may never notice Dolly's legs. But in the first two games of the American League championship series, the Angels' pitching has finally gotten the recognition it earned.

Wednesday night it was Bruce Kison who dazzled the Milwaukee Brewers, scattering five hits in pacing California to within one victory of its first American League pennant with a 4-2 victory in Game 2 of the series.

KISON is no stranger to sparkling October pitching performances. In three seasons with the Pittsburgh Pirates, he ran up a 3-0 record and an incredible 0.57 ERA in championship play.

His standout October performance continued against the Brewers, the AL's most feared offensive team. The lanky right-hander struck out eight, tying his season-high. He retired the last 13 batters in a row, mostly with curves and wicked sliders.

The only runs he surrendered came on Paul Molitor's inside-the-park home run in the fifth inning after California centerfielder Fred Lynn missed on an attempt for a shoestring catch and the ball rolled to the wall.

OTHER THAN that, Kison — 10-5 during the regular season — was near perfect.

"Bruce has been outstanding the past month," said catcher Bob Boone, "and he was again tonight. He had two great curves — a sharp one and a real looping curve — and maybe an even better slider. But most important was his control. He was perfect all night inside, outside, wherever he had to put the ball."

"You've got to make outstanding pitches to stop Milwaukee. They're a tremendous offensive ballclub. If they're in a slump, I think it's our pitching staff that's putting them in a slump."

INDEED, the series has been one long slump for the Brewers. Tuesday night, 39-year-old Tommy John gave up just three runs on seven hits in turning in a complete game.

All of which translates into serious trouble for the AL East champion Brewers. No team has ever lost the first two games of the best-of-five championship series and come back to win. But the Brewers waved no white flags as they headed back to Milwaukee for the third game Friday night.

"WE NEVER imagined we'd have such a tough time scoring against two pitchers like John and Kison," said Milwaukee manager Harvey Kuenn. "But people forget these two clubs have pretty good pitchers."

"We've won three games in a row before and there's no reason why we can't do it again."

For the second straight game, California took an early lead. Fred Lynn opened the second with a harmless-looking pop fly that dropped in front of center fielder Gorman Thomas, who didn't get a good jump. Lynn went to third on a double by Doug DeCinces. Tim Lincecum singled home Lynn and Boone delivered DeCinces with a suicide squeeze.

REGGIE JACKSON continued his history of October heroics by hitting the first pitch thrown to him in the third more than 420 feet over the center-field fence, to give California a 3-0 lead. It was Jackson's sixth career playoff homer and gave him 18 playoff RBI, one more than former teammate Graig Nettles.

"Sure I have some records for runs batted in and homers," said Jackson, playing in his 10th championship series, "but I've been out there twice as much as anyone else and I should have some records to show for it."

California made it 4-0 in the fourth when DeCinces walked and went to second on a single by Grich. After Foli sacrificed, Boone lined a sacrifice fly to right for his second RBI of the game.

THE BREWERS scored their runs in the fifth when Lynn tried for Molitor's sinking liner. Not only was he unable to reach the ball, but he failed to block it and it rolled to the fence for a home run that made the score 4-2. It was only the second inside-the-park homer in playoff history. Nettles having hit the other in 1980.

"If I had the same opportunity, I'd do the same thing again," said Lynn, a four-time Gold Glove award winner. "When it happens, you just feel helpless. I just had to watch Molitor run around the bases. When I looked in my glove and didn't see the ball, I was as surprised as everyone else. But that's the way I play. Playing real defensively out there is not my style."

Unbeatens collide in MSA showdown

by DAVE OLEJARZ

Tribune Sports Writer
It'll be showdown time in the Metro Suburban Association Friday night.

That's when a pair of unbeaten — Bloomfield Hills Lahser and Rochester Adams — will tussle in a game that just might be a premature championship clincher.

"I don't think whoever wins this game is going to lose two more," said Lahser Coach Bob Kelgen. "The winner is going to be in a prime position to take it all or have at least a tie."

BOTH TEAMS are coming into the game sporting 2-0 league records and 4-0 slates overall. Lahser is ranked ninth in the state Class A poll and first in its playoff region while Adams is second in the race for a state playoff berth.

Statistics-wise, Lahser has accumulated 96 points and given up 60. Adams has scored 80 points, but allowed only 34 defensively.

"I think the game will be close," said Adams Coach Joe Zelmanski. "One touchdown either way. There will be some points put on the board."

Kelgen echoed Zelmanski's thoughts.

"I ANTICIPATE we'll be a touchdown apart, maybe two touchdowns to one, that kind of thing."

Lahser installed a new ofensive formation this season and thus far the move has paid high dividends for the Knights. Speedster Brian Munson has been the catalyst and last week against Birmingham Groves, he ran for 100 yards on 21 carries and scored two touchdowns.

"It's something that conceptually fits some of my players, and it's what I want to do," said Kelgen, referring to the A-formation they run. "It helps us because it's less predictable."

Lahser has mainly relied on its running game in the first four games, but the Knights have an effective thrower in Scott Sugg, who has tossed three touchdown passes in the last two games. Sugg has two excellent receivers in Bob Martz and Tim Haynes.

DESPITE the Knights' ability to move the ball successfully, Kelgen expressed concern about Adams' defensive line, which averages 200 pounds.

"They are a very sound football team," he said. "And they take advantage of the mistakes you make. We're going to have to play errorless ball."

In contrast, Zelmanski figures his troops have to establish a more consistent oftensive attack which has lacked punch the last two games.

Jamie Heim has been impressive as the signal-caller. Ron Schimon, who gained 168 yards against Troy Athens two weeks ago, and Terry Allen are potential game-breakers whenever they touch the ball.

"WE TRY to be pretty balanced," said Zelmanski. "We have some real good running backs and line wide receivers. We try to take what the defense gives us."

Lahser is a very explosive football team, he added. Against Royal Oak Dondero in a 27-7 victory two weeks ago, they looked better perfect is what they were doing.

Waterfowl outlook bleak for early-season hunters

Our local waterfowl season opening Sunday is far from promising, and prospects are even worse for the pheasant season in a couple of weeks.

There is no sign of any migratory ducks of any consequence in time for the waterfowl opening day in southern Michigan, and locally bred ducks, usually the mainstay of early season shooting, appear to be fewer in number than last year.

Oakland Outdoors

by James A.O. Crowe

Robert Humphries, Department of Natural Resources biologist in charge of the Pointe Mouillee Game Area near Monroe, is pessimistic about the chances of opening day gunners in that popular marsh.

"THERE HAVE BEEN no migratory flights anywhere along the Michigan shore of Lake Erie that I can find out about," he said. "Maybe a few teal have wandered in, but not enough to do any good."

He added that local ducks either had a poor breeding season or have already started their southern migration.

"We have maybe five or six hundred ducks in the marsh right now," he said.

He is optimistic, however, that conditions could dramatically improve when the flight ducks, reported in better numbers than last year, put in their appearance.

CONDITIONS are slightly better at St. Clair Flats State Game Area on Harsen's Island in the St. Clair River. John Schafer, biologist in charge there, reports that a few thousand ducks are still in the area, but they are down from last year. And, as elsewhere in southern Michigan, there is no sign of any appreciable migratory ducks coming down from the Canadian breeding areas.

Goose hunters, who also can begin operating locally on Sunday, should have a better time of it. Goose numbers are up, according to all reports. Southeastern Michigan is especially well-endowed with Canada geese, which are so numerous as to be a nuisance in many places. The problem, however, is to find a place to safely hunt them among the crowded human population.

The long-awaited pheasant season will open on

Oct. 20, but a very pessimistic report from the DNR this week has laid a pall over the opening.

EACH SUMMER, rural mail carriers cooperate with the department by counting pheasant broods they see in a set period. Over the years, this survey has proven a very reliable indicator of pheasants which will be available to hunters in the fall.

This year, the compilation of those reports shows the most precipitous decline in pheasant numbers in the history of the survey. The bottom line is that pheasants are down by a full 40 percent over their southern Michigan range. Only two small areas in the Thumb showed a slight increase over last year.

DNR BIOLOGISTS admit they are only guessing when they attribute the decline to last year's very severe winter. Pheasants have survived as harsh winters as the last one, and I, for one at least, suspect other reasons contributed to the really catastrophic decline. Something may have been wrong with spring breeding season, our constant release of new chemicals in the environment, the possible effect of acid rain and the introduction of new pesticides on farm land are among possibilities that come to mind.

Under the circumstances, pheasant hunters would do well to investigate the potential of the state's 20 put-take pheasant areas and look for private hunting preserves which release pheasants for a fee. There are several in our immediate area. A list of all hunting preserves in the country is available without charge by sending a stamped, self-addressed envelope to National Shooting Sports Foundation, PO Box 1075, Riverside, CT 06878.

Two words were omitted from a paragraph in last week's Oakland Outdoors column. Here's how it should have read (the words are capitalized):

"...Traditionally, no more than ONE IN 20 archers ever take a deer in any one year. With the deer herd estimated at well over a million animals, the archers will take well under 15,000 deer."

Business update

Clark to lay off 1,700 in Michigan

BUCHANAN (UPI) — Clark Equipment Co., an automotive, construction and industrial equipment manufacturer, will lay off 1,731 Michigan employees by the end of the year.

The firm will close three of its four Michigan plants to move those operations to North Carolina, Kentucky and Ontario and also will substantially reduce its assembly operations in Battle Creek, the only Michigan city where it will continue manufacturing.

Regan: world finance 'touch and go'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Things will be "a little bit of touch and go" in international banking for the next six months to a year because of the precarious economic situation in countries like Mexico, Argentina and Brazil, Treasury Secretary Donald Regan says.

But Regan said the administration will do what it can to keep governments from being declared insolvent and said he doubted the troubled countries would face economic collapse simultaneously and "one by one, can be handled."

"Collectively they present quite a risk if they were all to happen at once. I don't think this necessarily has to happen," he said.

Milliken woo Japanese businessmen

NEW YORK (UPI) — Gov. William G. Milliken told Japanese businessmen he believes America's relationship with that nation is "the most important in the world."

Milliken hosted a luncheon for representatives of 20 Japanese firms, stressing Michigan's "substantial assets" of natural resources and strong school and transit systems.

The state is moving to increase funds for plant expansion, promote research and train workers, he said.

Ford sees 1983 lineup as firm's fourth turning point

by JESSE SNYDER

Tribune Business Editor

On the heels of the worst sales model year in 20 years, Ford Motor Co. executives predicted the 1983 lineup will be a "turning point" rivaling the introduction of the Model T, Model A and Ford's first new post-war cars.

Harold A. Poling, executive vice president for North American Automotive Operations, said, "We see this year as our year. It should rank in importance with the introduction of the Model T, Model A and 1949 Ford."

Poling said he expects the debut of Ford's largest array of new products in its history — at a development cost of $3 billion — between last March and next spring to produce important gains in market share and profitability.

POLING SAID later he expects Ford to increase its market share from the current 17.3 percent of domestic car sales to 20 percent, although not as soon as 1983.

Phillip E. Benton Jr., vice president for sales operations, predicted sales would increase slowly over the next year as the general economy improves, until foreign and domestic manufacturers reach a production rate of

12.5 million to 13.5 million annually by the fourth quarter of 1983. That compares to a current rate of about 10.5 million units.

Benton's prediction of a 9.5-10 million car and 3-3.5 million truck rate is just below that of General Motors Chairman Roger B. Smith, who said two weeks ago that the build rate for the fourth quarter of 1983 would hit 14 million.

Benton said Ford and other manufacturers all arrived at their figures by plugging predictions of U.S. economists of the national economy into similar computer programs.

He said the difference between his forecast and Smith's might come from a reluctance on Benton's part to appear overly optimistic.

"We've looked bad on predictions before and we don't want to look like idiots," Benton said.

"It (auto industry recovery) depends first and foremost on the general level of economic activity," he said.

"It starts out modestly, gains speed and by next spring is a strong recovery," he said.

Benton also predicted an increase in Ford's market share, which has slipped in recent years but rebounded modestly in the 1982 model year.

"Now as we approach 1983, it's Ford Motor Co. that has the ammunition in the pistol," Benton said. "The share performance also will start out with modest improvement and end up with a crescendo at the end of the model year."

HAROLD A. POLING

by JESSE SNYDER

Tribune Business Editor

Japanese automakers should produce cars in the United States to "provide jobs and pay taxes" here, says a top Ford Motor Co. executive who adds Ford is looking for a Japanese partner to build a small vehicle in an empty Ford assembly plant.

Harold A. Poling, executive vice president for North American Automotive Operations, said joint U.S. production of a smaller-than-Escort vehicle would be "desirable" and "we'd like to arrange to use an empty (Ford) plant. His remarks followed Ford's 1983 model introduction Wednesday in Dearborn.

POLING identified Toyo Kogyo, producer of Mazda cars and trucks and a supplier of vehicles and components to Ford, as "a major candidate for such a deal."

But Poling said negotiations on a small car between Ford and Toyo Kogyo have stalled recently, in part because low fuel prices have slowed sales of smaller cars.

Poling said a joint venture "makes sense" but Ford is not currently negotiating with any Japanese company.

"We wouldn't rule out talks with anyone who is considering building cars here in the United States," he said. "But we have had none recently, not now and none scheduled."

FORD HAS considered producing a mini-car designed and manufactured in America, but rejected the idea for now.

"It's very difficult to produce (such a car) in the United States profitably," Poling said.

Rival General Motors Corp. is expected to announce this month an agreement with Toyota to jointly produce a Corolla-like vehicle designed by Toyota and assembled in GM's vacant Fremont, Calif. plant.

Poling denied rumors that such a deal would prompt Ford to negotiate a similar pact with Nissan (Datsun), Toyota's main Japanese competitor, but did not rule out Nissan as a possible partner.

HE CRITICIZED Japanese automakers for dragging their feet on making cars in the United States. Of six Japanese automakers who export to the U.S., two are building assembly plants here. Honda will start assembling Accords in Marysville, Ohio, this fall. Mazda trucks will start rolling off the line in a new Toyo Kogyo plant near Nashville, Tenn.

CONSUMERS
POWER

219-C

MEMBERS F.D.I.C.

CASE NO. U-6797 TO EXISTING AND FUTURE GAS OR ELECTRIC CUSTOMERS OF CONSUMERS POWER COMPANY NOTICE OF HEARING

On September 15, 1981, the Michigan Public Service Commission (Commission) issued its Opinion and Order in Case No. U-6797 authorizing Consumers Power Company (Applicant) to implement a Residential Conservation Services Program (RCS Program), with a beginning date of July 1, 1981. Under the RCS Program, Applicant recovers the costs associated with the program by separate uniform surcharges applied to the bills of all of Applicant's electric and gas customers. Also, under the RCS Program, comprehensive reconciliation proceedings have been established to enable the Commission to adjust, as necessary, the actual costs with surcharge revenues for the preceding surcharge period and establish new surcharges for the ensuing 12 months.

In its September 15, 1981 Opinion and Order, the Commission authorized Applicant to recover the cost of its RCS Program through surcharges of 1.38¢ per Mcf and .0208¢ per kWh in the price of every metered unit of gas or electricity sold subject to Commission jurisdiction without regard to the amount of gas or electricity consumed by a customer. The surcharges commenced with the first billing cycle in October 1981.

On August 30, 1982, Applicant filed an Application for Reconciliation and Adjustment of the Surcharge for its RCS Program. Applicant represents that through June 30, 1982 it collected $3,587,914 in electric and $3,865,616 in gas RCS surcharges and $515,582 in audit fee revenues, while its costs associated with the RCS Program have totaled $4,593,876 for electric customers and $4,621,847 for gas customers, leaving a $784,817 underrecovery on electric customers and a $461,794 underrecovery on gas customers.

Applicant estimates that costs attributable to its RCS Program for the 12-month period ending June 30, 1983, net of audit fee revenues, will be $3,956,914 for electric customers and $3,463,856 for gas customers. Applicant forecasts its gas and electric sales for the 12-month period ending June 30, 1983 to be 312.37 billion cubic feet (Bcf) and 24,785 gigawatt-hours (GWh), respectively. Applicant represents that the surcharges required to cover interest attributed to prior underrecoveries and its anticipated costs attributable to its RCS Program for the 12-month period ending June 30, 1983, assuming the above-estimated sales, would be 1.26¢ per Mcf and 0.0193¢ per kWh, adjusted for the effective date of the final order.

The Michigan Public Service Commission has scheduled hearings on said Application (Case No. U-6797-R) and has ordered that NOTICE BE GIVEN that:

A. A public hearing will be held at 9:30 AM on October 25, 1982 and continue, if necessary, on October 26 and 27, 1982, in the offices of the Commission, Mercantile Building, 6545 Mercantile Way, Lansing, Michigan, for the purpose of determining the appropriate surcharges to be applied to the bills of Applicant's gas and electric customers. Any interested persons may attend the hearing and participate, subject to the provisions of the Commission's Rules of Practice and Procedure.

B. Any person seeking to intervene, in accordance with Rule 11 of the Rules of Practice and Procedure Before the Commission, shall file with the Commission, on or before October 20, 1982, an original and 12 copies of a petition to intervene, together with proof of service upon Applicant.

Subparagraph (2) of said Rule 11 provides as follows:

"(2) A petition to intervene shall set out clearly and concisely the facts supporting the petitioner's alleged right or interest, the grounds of the proposed intervention, and the position of the petitioner in the proceeding, so as fully and completely to advise the parties and the commission of the specific issues of fact or law to be raised or controverted."

The Commission will require strict compliance with the above-quoted rule.

"THE SURCHARGE CHANGES DESCRIBED IN THIS NOTICE HAVE BEEN REQUESTED BY CONSUMERS POWER COMPANY. THE MICHIGAN PUBLIC SERVICE COMMISSION MAY EITHER GRANT OR DENY THE REQUESTED CHANGES, IN WHOLE OR IN PART, AND MAY GRANT LESSER OR GREATER CHANGES THAN THOSE REQUESTED."

Jurisdiction is pursuant to 1978 PA 211, MCLA 460.6c; 1909 PA 300, as amended, MCLA 462.2 et seq; 1909 PA 106, as amended, MCLA 460.551 et seq; 1919 PA 419, as amended, MCLA 460.51 et seq; 1939 PA 3, as amended, MCLA 460.1 et seq; 1969 PA 306, as amended, MCLA 24.201 et seq; the Commission's Rules of Practice and Procedure, 1979 Administrative Code, § 460.11 et seq; the National Energy Conservation Policy Act, as amended, 42 USC 8201 et seq; and the Michigan Residential Conservation Service Plan.

Any interested persons may examine Consumers Power Company's Application and the supporting testimony and exhibits of Consumers Power Company in the offices of the Commission, Mercantile Building, 6545 Mercantile Way, Lansing, Michigan, or at any of Consumers Power Company's Regional or District offices.

Five school bands to hold joint concert

The Royal Oak Dondero, Marching Band, under the direction of Richard Perkins and Donald Winter, will host their 12th Annual Southeast Michigan Marching Band Festival Saturday.

It's a day-long event, capped off with an evening performance that's open to the public.

Participating this year will be high school bands and color guards from Novi, Farmington, L'Anse Creuse North and Royal Oak's Kimball, and Dondero.

THE ACTIVITIES begin early Saturday morning as bands form ranks and perform one after another. A veteran band clinician will observe each performance. Later he'll meet with the bands and their directors to point out strong and weak spots in their routines.

The bands are not judged as in competition. Instead it's a day of learning. Also during the day is a combined rehearsal of all bands as they prepare for a full dress performance in the evening.

The Band and Orchestra Boosters will set up a large tent to serve refreshments to participants and spectators. The Boosters also serve dinner to all the band members as well as a directors dinner that is planned for the adults involved in this event.

THE HIGHLIGHT of the day is the evening performance. Open to the public this begins at 7:30 p.m. and all bands perform once more. The climax of the evening is a large combined band performance directed by the guest conductor. This traditionally is a colorful and exciting evening of music with bands in full dress and banners flying.

Tickets are $2 and available from any of the participating band members or at the gate on the evening of the performance.

An invite to merry 'Field Day'

Marian High School celebrates its annual "Field Day" Friday.

Each of the four classes get to show their spirit through different events.

IT BEGINS at 8:30 a.m. when the student body assembles in the gym for a cheering and song session.

The day continues with an assortment of games ranging from a wheelbarrow race to track and field events.

Afterwards, the girls change into costumes symbolizing the theme they have chosen as a class. They then proceed to parade out onto the athletic field, and entertain their classmates and parents.

ALL FOUR classes perform a mini half-time show on which they are judged. Overall the classes are judged on a float, a banner (which identifies the class and its theme), the five minutes of cheers, and their stunt or half-time act.

When the day finally comes to an end and everyone meets back in the gym to hear the final results. After the winner has been decided all that is left behind is a busy week of float building, costume making and good memories.

Join us this year as Marian High School participates in its Field Day.

Class officers elected

Adams High School's sophomore student council elections were held this week.

The sophomore president is Tim Tural. Vice president is Andy Weng.

With our Oct. 15 Homecoming game against the Grove's Falcons looming near, there's been much frenzied activity. The senior, junior and sophomore class floats are being constructed and Homecoming Week preparations are under way.

"This is a busy time of year with Homecoming going on but it's great having all this student involvement," stated Student Council advisor Carol Lintz.

Cable TV company helps school's radio station

"To be a radio station for the community, as well as ourselves," is the goal of Cecile Hobson, production manager for Oak Park High School's radio station WOPR.

Hobson and WMJC/WHND disc jockey Perry Berkley (better known as Larry London) have set out to give WOPR a new image and a wider community following. Helping out are WMJC engineers and Continental Cable, which is currently installing cable television in Oak Park.

WITH the new image comes a new format. In contrast to last year's all rock format, the station will be playing a variety of music along with community news.

from private citizens and city officials. Ranging from rock to urban-contemporary to classical, the station is trying to find something for everyone.

"If you're going to be a DJ, you have to be able to adapt to all types of music," stated Hobson. Consequently, DJs will now switch styles every two weeks. Other changes include the addition of live phone-in lines and remote broadcasts from Board of Education meetings and sports events.

THE PROPOSED on-air date is set for Nov. 1. The broadcasting year is scheduled to end in a marathon in which WOPR and a local charity join for an on-the-air fundraiser.

Student's viewpoint of Troy teachers' strike

Back-in-school blues have set in, but on a different note this year. The Troy School District strike has caused many hard feelings between parents, students and teachers. After a two-week delay, students are back in school. But it could be temporary.

The fighting Red Hawk's sporting events, the marching band, all clubs, and new classes, were put on hold while the teacher's union and the school board worked on a new contract.

ALTHOUGH an agreement wasn't reached, teachers did return to classes without a contract. They agreed to teach for a 30-day extended period on their expired contract. If an agreement isn't reached, teachers may walk out again.

It seems that while both sides hear each other, neither is willing to give in. This emotional issue, which stretches far outside school walls, needs mature handling if a solution is to be found.

Athens' students have shown their feelings towards the strike through letters, songs and many times their own voices. Their main concern being shorter vacations.

SOME TEACHERS wear buttons with a countdown of how many days are left until they get a new contract, or strike. Seniors retaliated with their buttons representing their end, graduation.

Both sides must look at and understand each other. A compromise is needed.

Homecoming floats resurface following a year's absence

Madison's students will once again be building traditional Homecoming floats after a year without them.

Principal Stanley Jaroski decision came after he met with student representatives and parents who volunteered their homes for float building locations.

Last year the main reason for the substitution of the floats with a single "character" was because of the lack of building time caused by the teacher's strike.

Finished floats will be judged the morning of Friday, Oct. 15. But floats, as important as they are to students, are only part of this year's homecoming festivities.

Homecoming Week starts Monday with the beginning of Spirit Week. This year's theme schedule is as follows: Monday-Spirit Day; Tuesday-Punk Day; Wednesday-Toga Day; Thursday-Masquerade Day; and Friday-Dress Up Day.

ALSO during Spirit Week, for the second year in a row, the National Honor Society will hold a paper drive.

The homecoming dance will be Oct. 16, starting at 7 p.m. Admission is free to alumni who make prior reservations by calling the school.

TO THE ELECTRIC CUSTOMERS OF THE DETROIT EDISON COMPANY:

THE FOLLOWING IS PUBLISHED BY DIRECTION OF THE MICHIGAN PUBLIC SERVICE COMMISSION IN CASE NO. U-7308

NOTICE OF INQUIRY

In the matter of the application of THE DETROIT EDISON COMPANY for authority to issue stocks, bonds, notes and/or other evidences of indebtedness.

On August 30, 1982, the Detroit Edison Company (Applicant) filed its application prepared direct testimony and exhibits in the above matter.

Applicant is a corporation duly organized and existing under the laws of the State of Michigan with its principal office at 2000 Second Avenue, Detroit, Michigan, and is the owner and operator of extensive plants and equipment located in the State of Michigan, used principally in the business of producing, transmitting and furnishing electric energy and steam service to the public.

Applicant estimates that in order to meet the reasonably anticipated customer needs on a reliable basis, including continuation of construction of major generating projects in an efficient and cost-effective manner, its expenditures for the construction of additional facilities and other capital expenditures will be approximately $1,000,000,000 for 1983. Applicant states that it believes that it is in the best interests of its customers and investors to utilize a balanced capital structure consisting of a combination of common preferred and preference equity, mortgage bonds, obligations relating to pollution control and other industrial revenue bonds, term loans and other evidences of indebtedness to provide funds for the acquisition of property and the construction of facilities and, when necessary, for the repayment or reduction of short-term borrowings incurred and to be incurred, chiefly for, or to replace money used for such purposes. Applicant states that it also believes that short-term borrowings should be used to temporarily finance such cash requirements pending long-term financing.

Therefore, Applicant requests authority to issue a maximum of:

- (a) Up to 6,000,000 shares of its Common Stock;
- (b) Up to 1,000,000 shares of its Preferred Stock and up to 4,000,000 shares of its Preference Stock (or any combination thereof aggregating gross proceeds of $100,000,000);
- (c) General and Refunding Mortgage Bonds, Promissory Notes, and, to the extent they constitute evidences of indebtedness, Installment Sales Contracts and Loan Agreements (and amendments thereto) with certain Municipalities of Public Economic Development Corporations organized pursuant to 1974 PA 338, as amended or other public agencies or instrumentalities entered into in connection with the issuance of Revenue Bonds, in each case to finance Pollution Control Projects (or any combination thereof aggregating gross proceeds of $72,000,000);
- (d) General and Refunding Mortgage Bonds, if any, required to collateralize Revenue Bonds issued to finance Pollution Control Projects, as described in paragraph (c) above, but not resulting in additional proceeds;
- (e) General and Refunding Mortgage Bonds, Promissory Notes, other debt securities and other evidences of indebtedness (including, but not limited to, guarantees extending to the holders of Eurodollar securities to be issued by Applicant's Netherlands Antilles subsidiary) or any combination thereof aggregating gross proceeds of $175,000,000;
- (f) General and Refunding Mortgage Bonds, if any, required to collateralize the guarantees referred to in paragraph (e) above, but not resulting in additional proceeds.

Of the $72,000,000 requested for Pollution Control Revenue Bond obligations, the Commission is considering authorizing up to $6,925,000 prior to the hearing.

If approved by this Commission, Applicant proposes that the Common Stock, Preferred Stock, Preference Stock, Promissory Notes, General and Refunding Mortgage Bonds, Installment Sales Contracts and Loan Agreements (and amendments thereto), other debt securities and other evidences of indebtedness (including, but not limited to, any guarantees extending to the holders of securities issued by Applicant's Netherlands Antilles subsidiary) which are the subject of the application are expected to be issued at various times following approval by this Commission and after clearances, when required, by the Securities and Exchange Commission or the Michigan Municipal Finance Commission. Applicant states that it expects that the Common Stock, Preferred Stock, Preference Stock and, in part, the General and Refunding Mortgage Bonds will be sold either to underwriters for offering and sale to the public or through private sales to institutional investors and that such sales will be made pursuant to appropriate underwriting or purchase agreements similar to those utilized previously at prices, dividend rates and interest rates to be fixed by resolutions of Applicant's Board of Directors or the Executive Committee thereof.

Applicant states that it anticipates that during 1983 it will require total external funds of $821,000,000 (excluding $69,000,000 which is expected to be realized assuming the sale of shares of Common Stock pursuant to Applicant's Dividend Reinvestment and Common Share Purchase Plan) to meet the cash requirements of its capital expenditure program, certain debt maturities and installment obligations and sinking fund requirements.

Applicant represents that the proceeds from the sales of the Common Stock, the Preference Stock, Preferred Stock, Promissory Notes and, in part, General and Refunding Mortgage Bonds, together with the balance of the funds previously raised or to be raised from external sources, will be used:

- (a) To finance construction of certain generating, transmission, distribution and related facilities and other capital expenditures of Applicant of approximately $1,000,000,000;
- (b) For payments aggregating $2,100,000 for installments due for serial maturities associated with certain previously authorized Installment Sales Contracts and General and Refunding Mortgage Bonds issued in connection with Installment Sales Contracts related to the sale of Industrial Revenue Bonds or Pollution Control Revenue Bonds by certain municipalities;
- (c) For the payment of $2,500,000 due January 15, 1983 for sinking fund requirements relating to Applicant's outstanding $2.75 Series Cumulative Preference Stock;
- (d) For the payment of $2,500,000 due July 15, 1983 for sinking fund requirements relating to Applicant's outstanding $2.75 Series B Cumulative Preference Stock;
- (e) For payments aggregating $175,000,000 representing maturities of Unsecured Promissory Notes;
- (f) When necessary or advisable, for the repayment or reduction of short-term borrowings, if any, incurred and to be incurred chiefly for, or to replace money used for, such purposes, and for increases in other items of working capital.

Jurisdiction is pursuant to 1909 PA 144, as amended; MCLA 460.301 et seq.; 1919 PA 419, as amended; MCLA 460.51 et seq.; 1969 PA 306, as amended; MCLA 24.201 et seq.; and the Commission's Rules of Practice and Procedure, 1979 Administrative Code, R 460.11 et seq.

(Emphasis added)

New '9 to 5' tones down the feminism

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — There has been a major shakeup in the Jane Fonda-produced "9 to 5" TV series, which made its debut last season with a strident feminist blast.

There was reason to believe the female chauvinism turned off as many women viewers as it did men.

The first highly touted episode, loosely based on the hit Fonda movie with Dolly Parton and Lily Tomlin, was 14th in the Nielsen ratings. The subsequent three shows nose-dived, ending in 37th place.

THE KNOCKOUT cast of Rita Moreno, Rachael Dennisson (Dolly Parton's sister), Valerie Curtin and Jeanne Marsh were not enough to overcome the general anti-male feeling of the show.

The stories barely fell short of open warfare between the office boss, as played by Jeff Tambor, and the scheming women who worked for him. The lines were mean spirited, making the women look worse than the stereotyped male idiot.

Feminism aside, the show wasn't funny.

But ABC and 20th Century-Fox agreed "9 to 5" was too good an idea to write off. After all, millions of viewers work in offices and can connect with the 9-5 working stiff.

THIS SEASON the show has been revamped. Tambor has been axed. Peter Bonerz — the saturnine dentist on the old "Bob Newhart Show" — has replaced him as a more comic, less villainous boss.

Also added is Herb Edelman, a familiar nebbish, as a salesman and ally of the women instead of another male antagonist.

No one is more elated by the changes than the peppery, multi-talented Moreno who likes men as much as they like her.

"I THINK WE got off on the wrong foot with the men against women stories," she said during a lunch break in the Fox studio.

"For a while I thought we might not be renewed. I guess somebody up there wanted to give it a second chance."

"The show became a dour, heavy confrontation of the sexes. A bit preachy. Fortunately, we had four shows to see what our problems were instead of just one pilot, which is usually the case."

"We're going with what amounts to a new show. The important thing is viewers learn why these three women like each other so much. They aren't friends just to torment the boss."

ACCORDING TO MORENO, the stories are zeroing in on specific situations involving the three age groups represented by the working women.

"Viewers will be able to relate more closely to Rachel in her 20s, Valerie in her 30s and me in my 40s," Rita said.

PERSONAL ADVICE

Dear Ann Landers: Your reply to "Victim in Youngstown" spelled out exactly what my associates and I who work at medical centers have been saying for a long time.

You were right on when you said the criteria for selecting medical students are wrong. The entire focus is on grades, grades, grades. Consequently, the men and women who get the highly coveted places in our medical schools are hotshot over-achievers, super-aggressive and fiercely competitive. I don't consider those qualities the most desirable for a physician.

As you said, Ann, we need compassionate, caring doctors. We all know physicians who are book-smart, but they are cold, insensitive and money-hungry. It would be a boon to all mankind if your position on this subject gained wide attention and helped change the system. — Our Son Didn't Make It To Harvard

Dear O.S.: You're right on target, but the problem facing medical education today is how to select students who can handle the required science skills without sacrificing the human qualities you describe.

I consulted with Dr. David Rogers, President of the Robert Wood Johnson Foundation, and a former dean of Johns Hopkins School of Medicine, and he had this to say: "Perhaps if members of the medical schools' admissions committees were themselves screened for the qualities we need in physicians — compassion and sensitivity to human needs — we might see more physicians who are a credit to their profession."

We need more caring, compassionate doctors

I'd say Dr. Rogers is on to something. May I hear from the deans of some medical schools, please? Is it possible to change the system? If so, how?

Dear Ann Landers: Please help me. I did something pretty awful and now I don't know how to set things right.

I live in a condo. The mailman left a letter in my box addressed to someone else. I knew the woman and got nosy. The letter (from a man) was very affectionate with many compliments. He wrote, "If you would like to see me again, and I certainly hope you do, please call me at my new apartment." He then gave her the address and telephone number.

I had seen them together a couple of times. He is very attractive and it made me envious. I have kept that letter on my dresser for almost a month. Now I am afraid to give it to the woman because I broke the law when I opened the envelope.

It was a mean and petty thing that I did and I want to make amends. Please tell me what to do. — Tormented In Oak Lawn, Ill.

Dear Tor: Put the letter and envelope in another envelope and address it to the woman. On the envelope write "OPENED BY MISTAKE" (No lie. It WAS a mistake! A big one.) Your identity will remain unknown — and it's just as well.

Dear Ann Landers: I am an educated, 31-year-old woman with a good job. I have never married, but would love to adopt a child (under two years of age). Would a legitimate adoption agency seriously consider my application? — Hoping In Texas

Dear Hoping: Adoption agencies have different guidelines pertaining to would-be-parents. Start asking around. If you are flexible and persistent, you will succeed.

CONFIDENTIAL to Need Your Wisdom to Deal with this Hypocrite: It's simple. Love your enemy and you will drive him nuts.

Drugs? How much is too much? Is pot OK? Is cocaine too much? If you're on dope or considering it, get Ann Landers' all-new booklet, "The Lowdown on Dope." For each booklet ordered, send $2.00 plus a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope (37 cents postage) to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 11995, Chicago, Illinois 60611.
